LIFE CRUSHED OUT BY AUTO TRUCK

Leland Jewett Age 17, on a Motorcycle Collided With Auto Truck on Pleasant Street--No Blame Attached to Driver

Leland Jewett, aged 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jewett, 448 Court street, was almost instantly killed on Pleasant street, shortly after five o'clock Friday afternoon, when a motorcycle on which he was riding, was struck by an auto truck driven by Patrick Harnady, Otto Pecunias who was riding with Jewett was badly bruised but not seriously injured.

Young Jewett was driving the motorcycle and Pecunias was on the rear seat. They were coming up Court street and as they came into Pleasant street a large automobile, with a Pennsylvania registration was coming down the other side of the street, while the Wentworth Hotel truck with Harnady driving was coming up street.

All three met at the junction of the street and Harnady, seeing that an accident was unavoidable, pulled his car sharply to the left, seeking to avoid the motorcycle which was speeding across ahead of him. He side-swiped the automobile coming down Pleasant street but was unable to escape the motorcycle which was struck and Jewett was thrown, the truck passing over his chest.

Pecunias was thrown to one side and escaped. As soon as Jewett could be released from under the car he was placed in the truck and with Pecunias, rushed to the hospital by Harnady.

Dr. Carby who was near attended Jewett, but his head was so badly crushed that he died in a few minutes after he arrived at the hospital.

Pecunias after being treated at the hospital was taken to his home on Hunking street and put to bed. He has a fractured rib and is more or less bruised about the body.

Harnady reported at the police station after the accident and he was later released pending an investigation of the accident. As far as can be learned from those who were near the scene of the accident, there is no blame attached to Harnady the driver of the truck, who was driving at a moderate rate of speed and when the motorcycle shot across the street he did everything possible to avoid the collision.

The Pennsylvania car, which contained the driver and three women, had a mud guard crushed in, but as soon as the two young men had been taken to the hospital they disappeared.

The police and county authorities are very anxious to get their version of the accident and Deputy Sheriff Shaw who was near when the accident happened, instituted a search as soon as he came back from the hospital, but up to midnight had not located the car.

Medical Referee Dr. Pender was notified and after viewing the body of Jewett at the hospital turned it over to an undertaker and he will report his findings to the County Solicitor.

OWNER OF PENN. CAR HERE

The Pennsylvania car which passed the corner of Court street when the Jewett boy was killed made no effort to get away. It went direct to Low's station and had a broken fender repaired, which was caused by coming in contact with the Portsmouth Motor Mart truck at the time.

The car was No. 60983 and the chauffeur is Charles Bell. He tells a perfect story of the accident and says the motor mart truck was on the proper side and that the accident was unavoidable. The owners of the car are at Bachelors, Rye. Bell says he looked at the injured motor cycle and boys and helped remove them and then proceeded for repairs, as he did not at the time consider the accident as being serious.

GOVERNMENT ARSENAL BLOWN UP

Three Killed Twenty-Three Injured.-- Second Explosion Since April

(By Associated Press) Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 8.—A terrible explosion occurred this morning at the Frankford Arsenal, killing three and seriously injuring 23 others, two of whom were young girls. The dead were blown to pieces and the explosion was so terrific that it shook buildings twenty miles away. People were thrown from their beds in a panic. In an instant immense crowds gathered and the police and soldiers had difficulty in keeping them back. None of the injured could give any idea how it happened as they were so badly injured and frightened. Major Montgomery and his staff are making a thorough investigation and refuse to make a statement. It is thought to be the result of carelessness. The explosion occurred in the building where the small caps are handled for the 3 and 6-inch shells. Fire followed the explosion and the city and local departments were called and had much difficulty in preventing total destruction and the loss of thousands of 3 and 6-inch shells. All sorts of stories are being told of suspicious characters, etc.

AUSTRIANS TAKE 6000 PRISONERS

Little Fighting On French Russian or British Fronts

(By Associated Press) From the present fighting north of Riga it is evident that the Germans do not intend to pursue the Russians further at this time. The lateness of the season and the near approach of winter makes it certain that Von Hindenburg will not take his army further at this time, but will winter at Riga.

The absence of the German naval co-operation is taken as further evidence to substantiate the above claim. The Franco-Belgian fronts have only witnessed small infantry and artillery fighting today with lively work by the air fleets.

London reports little activity. The Germans delivered savage attacks on the Argonne section which were successfully broken up.

The Italians have been smashing away in the Isonzo section. Austrian Army Chief reports that he has retaken all the ground formerly taken by the Italians. He has also taken 6000 prisoners.

The Austrians are apparently in receipt of heavy reinforcements and they are putting up a determined fight.

NOVEL PARADES HAMPTON BEACH

"Agricultural and Grange Day" was by no means the least successful of the seven Hampton Beach carnival days. Yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock the "Agricultural, Trades and Civics Parade" started from the North Shore hotel at 2 o'clock. The procession was greatly augmented by the addition of the section containing the decorated automobiles.

Prizes for the best decorated machines were awarded as follows: First, Mrs. James Dwyers, Hampton; second, Mrs. Howard Lane, Hampton; third, Mrs. Frederick Rowe, Boston.

The money prizes in the regularly scheduled parade were awarded to the following participants: Agricultural division, Ocean Side Grange, Hampton, $20; Civics division, Hampton Red Cross, $10; third, Hampton Boy Scouts, $7.50; fourth, Hampton fire department, $5; Trades division, Hampton Milk company, $20; second, J. A. Davis, Hampton, $10; third, Hampton Coal company, $5; fourth, divisions of vehicles not classed as above, most attractive decorated, John Weidbeck, Lowell, $5; most original, Eugene Vail, Manchester, $5; best pair horses in parade, Edward Batchelder, Hampton.

After the prizes in the parade had been awarded from the bandstand, occurred one of the most interesting events of the entire week. The crew of Coast Guard Station No. 16 gave a spectacular beach drill, followed by a boat drill.

Today is "Mothers' and Children's Day," and the feature event of the morning was a Ford automobile race in the afternoon will be held the children's parade and basketball.

At yesterday's meeting of the Suffrage League, Miss Scott in examining the charges that 70 per cent of the women of East Dubuque, Illinois, voted well, found that 90 per cent of the men (Germans mainly) voted well, also, and that a majority of the counties in Illinois voted dry at that same election. The charge that only 2 per cent of the women of Massachusetts voted on school questions does not apply at the present time as the percentage has greatly increased since women have been permitted to select candidates at the primaries. On examination, all other points in Mrs. Preston White's address were found to be equally misleading and fallacious.

Inability to witness the opera, "Huldu" given on Friday evening, compels us to report only from hearsay which is very complimentary and appreciative. It was undertaken and carried to the successful ending by Miss Lucy Hoyt who is a host in herself. She had valuable assistance in preparation for the program from Rev. W. W. Lamberton and William Snow.

It was beautifully and artistically staged upon the southern side of the academy grounds, and attractively adorned with trees and flowers, and regarded as one of the best entertainments given here. The participants were fully attired in court dress. The electric and moonlight vied with each other in creating a charming scene.

The parts assigned were faithfully fulfilled without hesitation or prompting by the able principals and no less by the chorus, which formed a splendid background for the entire scene. It was announced for Thursday evening but the stormy weather compelled a postponement. The proceeds after the large expenses are deducted will be given for the benefit of the local section of the Women's Navy League.

Between 300 and 400 were present.

BROADEN FIELD OF ENDEAVORS IN WAR WORK

Note Sounded at Field Meeting of Federated Woman's Clubs.

Witness Tells of Prussian Warfare.

Durham, Sept. 7.—The broadening of the field of endeavor and the bringing of every possible ounce of weight to bear upon war work through the leadership of the American Red Cross, is the early note sounded by the 22nd annual field meeting of the New Hampshire Federation of Women's Clubs which opened here yesterday afternoon in the gymnasium of the New Hampshire college, the faculty of which is co-operating with the Durham Woman's club in entertaining the delegates and visitors.

In the vanguard of arrivals is no less distinguished a visitor than the Countess Laura de Turczynowicz, who knows through bitter experience the kind of warfare waged by the Prussians, for it was under her roof at Szwalk on the eastern front, that Von Hindenburg made headquarters, and there with members of her family she was kept prisoner for more than seven months.

The countess is American born and the wife of a Polish nobleman who is fighting with the Russian army, if he is still alive, for she is fearful that harm has befallen him, no word having reached her since January, when he was at Odessa.

"Von Hindenburg is a beast and a brute," the countess declared in a brief interview. "This man, this god of the German war machine, is a great hulking brute of a man, without decency or manners."

During the horrible months before she made a thrilling escape with her three children, who are here with her, she saw the country about her palace devastated, families scattered to the four winds, children maimed, mothers and daughters degraded and fathers, brothers, sons and husbands slaughtered.

Experiences which have silvered her hair have made of her eyes wells of conflicting emotions which speak of the horrors through which she has passed and of the depth of feeling of which she is capable.

The countess, since reaching this country has allied herself with the American Red Cross and comes to Durham officially to represent that great organization. She is author of "When the Prussians Came to Poland," and is a wonderful speaker, her opening address yesterday afternoon holding her audience breathless. Even in America trouble has pursued her, her life having been attempted, while she was in California.

The program for the two days session is one of the strongest that has been arranged for a field meeting and has attracted here many of the leading women of the state, almost every seat being occupied in the gymnasium when the session was officially launched at 2 o'clock by the state president, Mrs. Alpha Haver Harriman of Laconia.

Mrs. W. C. O'Keane, president of the Durham Woman's Club, is in charge of the local arrangements, and it is at once apparent that everything possible has been done for the pleasure and comfort of the clubwomen.

The visiting clubwomen are comfortably quartered in the various dormitories, and meals throughout the two days will be served in the girls' dining room at Smith hall.

The social features include a reception and automobile trips to various places of interest, including the house of Gen. John Sullivan of Revolutionary fame and the Madbury greenhouses, one of which—the rose house—is the largest in the world, being a quarter of a mile long and 60 feet wide.

The Woman's Club here at Durham has well up to 100 active members, and is doing a splendid work under the leadership of Mrs. O'Keane, whose assistant officers are: Vice president, Mrs. Charles Simmons; Secretary, Mrs. W. C. O'Keane.

At the opening of the session the invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Vaughn Dabney and there was music by members of the hostess club.

In the address of welcome on behalf of the Durham Woman's Club, Mrs. O'Keane was most cordial. Interesting reference was made to the atmosphere in which the work of the club is forwarded and to the effort made by the members to "do their bit" along Red Cross lines.

Mrs. James W. Remick of Concord, first vice president of the state organization, responded and, incidentally paid glowing tribute to the state college which has faithfully taught the value of preparedness, the principle of food conservation and has contributed a large number of men to the fighting forces of Uncle Sam.

President, Ralph D. Heibel, A. B., LL.D., president of the New Hampshire college, extended greeting in which he asked the full co-operation of the women's clubs in carrying out the work of the college, which is the training of men and women for leadership.

The principal addresses of the afternoon were made by the Countess de Turczynowicz and by Mrs. Remick, the latter giving in illuminating detail the work of the New Hampshire chapter of the Red Cross.

Last evening three minute reports of the work of individual clubs were given by presidents or delegates, and there was an address by Ernest R. Groves, A.B., B.D., dean of arts and sciences at the college, his subject being "The Persistent Conflict of Human Ideals."

ITALIANS AND AUSTRIANS HOLD ATTENTION

Stubborn Fighting for Monte Gabriele. Other Fronts All Clear

(By Associated Press)

Heavy fighting for the possession of Monte San Gabriele and other heights northeast of Gorizia still continue with the Italians always exerting pressure and the Austrians putting up a stubborn defense.

Although suffering heavy losses the Austrians have offered a stiff resistance but Gen. Cadorna is not to be denied and he is steadily advancing his outposts and in the past few days has taken 200 prisoners.

On the Carso front the enemy have adopted unsuccessful tactics and the artillery work is especially heavy.

During the present offensive against the Austrians the Italians have captured over 30,000 and Austria has lost in killed and wounded 120,000.

German cavalry is operating in the region about Riga and at a point about fifty miles up the Dvinski river they have made considerable gains. No great artillery action is reported from the west front and on the French front there has been no infantry fighting.

Germans have been dropping bombs on hospitals and on Thursday French coast and one officer killed and five soldiers were injured.

AMERICA HAS NEVER KNOWN DEFEAT—SURE TO TRIUMPH

Birkenhead, Eng., Sept. 7.—"America has never known defeat—and on this occasion, too, she will triumph," was the confident declaration of Premier Lloyd George today that swayed a great crowd to thunderous applause.

The British premier admitted news from Russia was "disquieting," but he declared his complete confidence that Russian leaders were now repairing their machine under fire. "I am confident they will succeed."

Lloyd George spoke in accepting the freedom of the city.

"German attempts to sow dissension among the allies on the east and west fronts," he declared emphatically, "German only decided to invade Russia with the sword because her other method failed."

"The Russian revolution postpones an allied victory. We had expected an earlier recovery—but we must be patient."

"We are less concerned of the effect of a Russian failure on the war than of its effect on the world's democracy. Russia's leaders are now repairing their machine under fire. I am confident they will succeed."

The premier reiterated his oft-expressed defiance of the German submarine campaign.

"I am absolutely convinced," he declared, with emphasis, "that the submarine will never be able to beat down the empire's strength nor the allies' hopes."

"Germany boasts of her victories in the east—against no resistance—but the allies' success on the west, especially that of the Italians is an effectual reply," the premier continued.

Contrary to general expectation, Lloyd George did not discuss the allies' war aims. His speech had been generally reported as prepared with this in view.

Coincidentally with the announcement that Premier Lloyd George was to deliver an important speech on the war aims of the allies at Birkenhead today, propaganda is given by the news papers to a statement by Sir Edward Carson to a correspondent, in which Sir Edward declares:

"There is a great deal of very loose and mischievous talk about peace. Some people seem to imagine we have only to conclude a treaty with Germany and all will be well. But I should like to ask what is to happen then? Are the nations of the world to proceed with preparations for the next conflict—to pursue their researches in science to the expansion and creation of still more deadly weapons of warfare—to spend their resources in the creation of enormous cohorts of airplanes and submarines for the destruction of unfortified towns and the murder of the innocent women and children that inhabit them; to take advantage of the experiences gained in this war in the improvement of lethal and poisonous gases for the destruction of humanity? And are we to live in daily terror that at any moment another conflict may arise which might almost lead to the extinction of civilization itself?"

"The truth is a treaty of peace does not necessarily secure peace in the only sense wherein it can be of any real use to progress and humanity. We talk platitudes about a league of nations to enforce peace without considering conditions essential to its success. But there was a league of nations to protect Belgium; there were solemn treaties and conventions at The Hague to apply the principles of humanity as far as possible in war and give effect to international law. How did these avail on the outbreak of the war?"

Sir Edward then quotes the German Emperor as saying there is no international law. How did these avail on the outbreak of the war?"

Sir Edward then quotes the German Emperor as saying there is no international law; that treaties are scraps of paper, and so forth, and adds:

"I have not yet seen a single suggestion made as to how in future these calamities are to be prevented from recurring if the lawless temper of the Germans remains unrepentant and their power to repeat their crimes remains what it has been in the past relatively to the rest of the world. President Wilson is right when he declares no terms signed by the present rulers of Germany would accord the slightest security for the peace of the world, and nothing is more certain than that just in proportion as the military defeat of Germany is incomplete the duration of peace will be short. Whatever terms Germany might now bring herself to accept in order to recuperate her strength for another aggression, her people would soon forget such economic privations as they have to endure and would remain convinced they proved themselves invincible."

These conservation demonstrators, as they will be known, are being set to work through the co-operation of the Public Safety Food Committee, Mrs. Mary I. Wood, Mr. Hoover's representative on the Women's Committee of the Council of National Defense, and the State of New Hampshire.

They are being given a special one-week course at New Hampshire College in preparation for the work and will return to the College some time in the middle of the winter, probably in February, for a second course.

The first half of the year, they will discuss and illustrate in a most practical way, the following subjects: "How to Use Fats," "How to Use Milk," "Uses of Cornmeal," "Meat Substitutes" and "War Breads."

The training course now going on here is being conducted by Miss Winifred Moses of the Home Economics Department of Cornell University. She is assisted by Dean Helen Knowlton, Miss Frieda Reiner and Miss A. B. Livingston, all of the New Hampshire College Department of Home Economics, and by Miss Louise P. Clanton, the New Hampshire State leader of Extension Work in Home Economics.

These taking the course are: Ann Beggs, Florence Hubbard, Helen Osborne, Irene Weed, Neva Woods, Dorothy Emerson, Rosalind Tilden, Ruth Sykes and Olive Wilkins. Besides these who are the demonstrators, Mrs. Hilda Yanits of Manchester and Miss Page of the Amoskeag Home Economics Department of Manchester are taking part of the course.

While a great deal of technical work is being done at the same time, the demonstrators are given a series of talks to the end that they will be better able to make the people of the state understand how vitally important the subject of food conservation is at this time and that food conservation and patriotism are, for the present, synonymous terms.

The demonstrators have been addressed so far by Director John C. Kendall of the Experiment Station, and by Mrs. Mary I. Wood of Portsmouth; H. H. Scudder of the English Department of New Hampshire College and Mrs. V. V. Henderson, Red Cross worker.

Sir Edward asserted that if this war is to put an end to all war, German militarism must be sufficiently crushed to make fresh aggression by her impossible for a long time to come "and until it is no longer possible for the German people themselves to be deluded by the legend of their invincibility in arms."

In conclusion Sir Edward said that it was obvious that Great Britain must carry on the war until such a victory is attained as will remove vitally all danger of war in the future, "and any man who tries, whatever his motive, to distract the attention of the country from this goal of deliverance, is the enemy of our peace."

MRS. WOOD GIVES INTERESTING DISCOURSE

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., Sept. 7.—Mrs. Mary I. Wood of the Women's committee of the council for national defense appealed to the members of the New Hampshire Federation of Women's clubs here this afternoon to help her in her campaign to organize the women of the state for war work.

Mrs. Wood told what she had seen of the work that is being done in Canada and explained the division of labor of the board of which she is the chairman.

She explained the work of the food demonstrators now being trained here who are soon to go out over the state and urged that every woman in every town in New Hampshire attend these demonstrations and profit by them. She urged housekeepers of many years' standing to set aside any prejudices they might have and pay attention to the particular economies which these demonstrators would explain.

Professor W. C. O'Keefe was another speaker at the afternoon session and he as vice chairman of the public safety food committee pointed out what home saving could accomplish toward furnishing needed food for the allies.

Another of the speakers was Prof. Carl W. Woodward of New Hampshire college who discussed the conservation of fuel.

Among the other speakers were Mrs. Arnold Yanits of Manchester, who talked on "Home Making, a Profession," Miss Helen Moulton, dean of women of New Hampshire college, discussed home economics and the war and Mrs. William H. Scheffeld of Peterborough told of the work she had been accomplishing this summer in a training course for women at her home in Peterborough.

WHISKEY MAKING CEASES TODAY

Washington, Sept. 7.—Manufacture of whiskey will cease throughout the nation at 12 o'clock tomorrow night when the prohibitive clause of the food control act becomes effective.

Millions of bushels of grain which would otherwise be ground up for whiskey will thus be released for food. How many millions, no one knows, for the manufacture of alcohol for beverage purposes is so closely blended with the production of alcohol for industrial and medicinal purposes that there is no way of determining the exact amount.

Of the 100,000,000 bushels of grain or ingredients, which goes into the distilleries each year, about forty per cent, experts estimate, comes out in the form of whiskey and other distilled beverage drinks. The remainder, made into alcohol of exactly the same characteristics as that used for whiskey, eventually finds its way into perfumes, toilet waters, bay rum, mouth-cures and 16 industries where denatured alcohol is used in ever increasing quantities.

Approximately 14,000,000 gallons of whiskey is produced each year by American distilleries. Production of alcohol by the same distilleries for commercial and medicinal use other than beverages, approximately 146,000,000 gallons. The manufacture of alcohol for the latter purposes will continue as usual, probably in greater volume, and few of the larger distilleries, if any will have to shut down.

The class of distilleries which will be put out of business is composed almost wholly of small plants operated by from one man to half a dozen men, located in California, Ohio, and New Jersey and producing brandy, from grapes, apples and peaches. These produce approximately 3,000,000 gallons a year. These in New Jersey, and Ohio, officials believe, will suspend operations entirely. The California plants, it is thought, will continue to operate in part, for the manufacture of spirits for fortifying great wine.

So far as officials here can learn, there are few distilleries in the United States, with the exception of the fruit agency plants, producing whiskey at the present time. Summer is the off season for whiskey production, which is confined almost wholly to the winter months, the early spring and the late fall. The cessation of active whiskey production, therefore, at this season of the year, is largely theoretical but the operation of the law will prevent the manufacture of whiskey at the time it usually starts on a large scale, the latter part of September.

Stopping whiskey manufacture, instead of curtailing the government's revenues, will increase them for the next two years, officials believe. Coupled with the operation of the pending revenue bill, the withdrawal of whiskey from the stock already accumulated will probably triple the revenues within the next twelve months, as the present law imposes a tax of $1.10 and the revenue bill contemplates a tax of $2.20 a gallon. A stock of approximately 230,000,000 gallons has accumulated in the bonded warehouses and on the shelves of wholesale and retail liquor dealers. Approximately 140,000,000 gallons are in warehouses and upon that quantity the government will collect taxes as it is withdrawn.

Few men will be thrown out of work by the operation of the law. Distilleries now running will continue to produce alcohol for commercial purposes with little change in their forces. Upon this class of alcohol with the exception of alcohol for denaturation, the revenue bill would impose a tax of $2.20, double the present income from this source.

There are approximately 700 distilleries in the country, of which more than half are small fruit brandy plants. The amount of capital invested in the latter class is not great in the aggregate. The capital invested in the big producing plants amounts high into the millions. Officials here believe that losses will be more than wiped off by the greatly higher prices distillers will obtain for their product, already manufactured. In the opinion of some officials whiskey will be selling at $16 a gallon within twelve months, affording distillers enormous profits which will more than compensate for the loss of capital invested in plants.

At the same time the plants will continue to operate on an approximate sixty per cent production basis, making commercial alcohol. A tremendous growth in the use of commercial alcohol is anticipated which in time may result in the demand for a quantity of alcohol equal to as large as the present output for all purposes.

The law prohibits the wearing of a uniform by any man who has been discharged. Now, down in Texas last fall we had a man who was discharged from the army who was still wearing his uniform. At that time it was his uniform, for he had paid for it and it was his property. He had served his connection with and had been discharged from the army.

"Well, the man had to get home and he had no clothes except his uniform, and he would be arrested if he wore that because he was not in the army. He would be arrested either for wearing the only clothes he had or for not wearing them. The sheriff was watching for just such men and the ex-soldier had no chance at all.

"The only thing to do was to buy the man a suit of civilian clothes. We had no authority for it, but we did it just the same."

TEUTON RULERS AGREE ON PLAN TO ANNEX POLAND

Zurich, Switzerland, Sept. 7.—British Embassy per wireless press.—According to information received here from Vienna, the Central Powers have decided to carry out the partition of Poland. Germany will annex such parts of Russian Poland as she needs to rectify her strategic frontier, amounting to one-tenth of the territory. Austria will annex the remaining nine-tenths, and Emperor Charles will promulgate a decree uniting Russian Poland with Galicia and proclaiming the whole territory to be the United Kingdom of Poland, with himself as King.

The new Hapsburg-Roland will have its own Parliament, but its foreign policy, army and finances will be controlled by Austria. The immediate effect will be to make the Poles liable to military service in the Austrian army. It will also involve removal from the Austrian Parliament of deputies representing Galicia, giving the German parties in the Reichstag numerical preponderance.

Portsmouth, N. H., Saturday, September 8, 1917.

Learning the Value of Economy.

That a large saving of food is being made in this country is indicated by statistics of garbage collections in fifty cities, compiled by the Food Administration in Washington. The figures show that in 47 of the cities there was a big reduction in the amount of garbage collected, as compared with the preceding year, while the other three failed to make as good a record, one of them, a Connecticut city, having shown an increase in the amount of its garbage for the year. That city was Waterbury, which is evidently so prosperous that its people are not seriously affected by the present cost of living.

The fact that city garbage is shrinking in volume is a healthful sign. It shows that the people are saving at an important point. This is a wasteful country and is so recognized throughout the world, and in the past hundreds of thousands of tons of good food have been thrown into the garbage cans of the cities every year. This was not entirely wasted, for it was collected by thrifty men who fed it to hogs, and in many cases the pork was sold at high prices to the very people who had helped to fatten it.

But the practice was wasteful on the part of the families who threw the garbage away. Every garbage collector knows that every day the cans contain much excellent food, spoiled only by the lack of proper care. Bread, cake and meats which would be appreciated in many homes are found in the garbage cans in astounding quantities, or were before the present reform began.

It is probable that some of the saving of food is due to patriotic impulse, but the chances are that the most of it is prompted by necessity. The cost of living is such that the average family finds it necessary to economize at this time, even if its head is drawing larger pay than ever before. But whether the credit for the new state of things be given to patriotism or necessity—and without doubt some is due to both—the fact that a substantial saving is being made is reassuring. It shows that the people of this country can get down to hardpan when necessary, and it means that everything in the food line is to be put to proper use until the present world stress is over. This is as it should be and the garbage statistics are altogether creditable to the people.

Under extra pressure great crops have been produced this year and it is now in order to see that every pound of eatables is put to proper use. Every mouthful that is fit for human consumption should be kept out of the garbage can, and that this is being done to a greater extent than ever before is proved by the government's investigation. Let the good work go on. The people are on the right track at last, and what is now being learned will be of value to thousands after the present emergency has passed. True economy is always in order, a fact which the American people have long and grievously needed to learn.

The people of Iowa cannot be suffering from the high cost of living. Government figures show that there is in that state one automobile to every eleven persons, a larger percentage than is shown by any other state in the Union. This shows that in the handling of farm produce the middleman doesn't get it all.

The Foresters of America propose a fraternal confederation of the world as a means of bringing about peace among the nations. As in the case of the Pope, their motives are not to be questioned, but not by such means is peace to come. The case in hand is too serious for settlement by the methods of the lodge room.

The government's instructions as to how to store potatoes for the winter may possibly be of some use to amateurs, but they make the regular farmer smile. And amateurs will do better to consult with their farmer neighbors than to spend their time in studying official bulletins.

Now it is reported that the United Mine Workers of America are preparing to demand a substantial increase in wages. Will the time come when the government will have to take wages in hand as well as prices?

Don't worry about the soldiers and sailors having to eat canned goods as a part of their rations. They ought to be thankful to get them. The men who saved the Union had to live on hardtack and salt pork.

The War Department is reported to be planning for an army of 5,750,000 men. If the per capita cost is as much as it has been to date the tax payers will begin to realize that the country is at war.

Senator Brady of Idaho asks for an appropriation of $40,000 with which to provide dogs for the American army in Europe. Sure enough, "Let slip the dogs of war!"

EDITORIAL COMMENT

A Sheep Parade

(From the Philadelphia Public Ledger news columns.)

A flock of several hundred sheep, accompanied by brass bands and detachments of soldiers and sailors, followed by numerous floats, gambled through Chicago's business streets Saturday.

It was the city's first sheep parade, and was given under the auspices of the National Sheep and Wool Bureau to promote interest in wool conservation. Six young women, appropriately garbed, acted as shepherdesses and were kept busy trying to keep their charges from dashing into hotel and shop doors along the line of march.

Some of the signs carried by marchers in the parade read as follows: "There is no substitute for wool; we need more sheep." "Food and wool for workers will win the war." "Red Cross work need more wool." "Homemakers Guild advocates sheep raising for women."

The prize lamb in the parade will be sold at auction and the proceeds given to the Red Cross. The committee in charge of the demonstration will urge that similar parades be held in Philadelphia, New York, Boston and other Eastern cities.

Congress's Vacation

(From the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph)

Judging by present indications Congressmen will get home in time to sample the Thanksgiving turkey and the "pumpkin" pie.

Eleven Billion Dollars

(From the Brooklyn Eagle)

The loan bill reported to the House of Representatives, plans for the borrowing of $11,000,000,000 by the Washington Government from the people of the United States.

This means, averaged up, that $110 is borrowed from every man, woman and child, and that the Government agrees to pay on that about $4.40 a year interest. Manifestly, for the payment of this interest the average tax on each man, woman and child will be $4.40 a year, and the sinking fund provision must come from the same source, which is the loaning source. It is well to look these facts in the face. Facts are rarely dangerous unless they are concealed or forgotten.

But the $11,000,000,000 will most of it be spent in the United States, will be paid out to our merchants, our farmers, our mechanics. For the ten years to come, and at the expense of the future, this generation will reap a big net advantage. Business will boom. If prices stay high, wages will meet them. Inflation is involved in this outlook, of course. That means that the money a man has accumulated in bank, the money he has invested in life insurance will not go so far toward supporting him in his old age as it would have gone without inflation. The cream of prosperity always has some skim-milk underneath.

No Strikes Now!

(From the Boston Globe)

The ship strike on the Boston and Maine may become a most serious industrial difficulty at a time when such a thing might jeopardize the National defense.

The railroad is working to its capacity. It has received an added burden in the service it must render the cantonment at Ayer. Between 40,000 and 50,000 men soon will be quartered there. Supplies for this force, the largest ever assembled in New England, must be carried by rail.

New England shops and factories are congested with orders for goods necessary for the prosecution of the war. Raw materials must be brought, finished goods must be speeded on their way. Every moment in war is precious.

The road has offered to refer the controversy to the Council of National Defense for arbitration. The community confidently relies upon the men to trust their case to that tribunal representing the country in this emergency.

A Word to the Engineer

(From the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph)

A few years ago Colonel George Harvey addressed a circular letter to the railroad presidents of the country, asking for a little information. He wanted to know why American trains could not be started and stopped as gently as European ones. In England, as Arnold Bennett has told us, trains come to a standstill in the station "like a dove alighting on the shoulder of a beautiful girl." Our trains run smoothly enough after they get started, but what a series of jerks are involved in the process! And when a fast train is approaching a terminal passengers have learned by experience not to stand in the aisle, but to remain braced in their seats for the inevitable shock of stopping. Colonel Harvey's interrogation was ignored by all except one railroad executive, whose reply was simply an exhibition of bad temper, eliciting more heat than light on the subject.

But perhaps the Colonel's missionary work is beginning at last to bear fruit. At any rate it is interesting to find the president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, addressing the officers of the company the other day at their annual meeting at Deer Park, calling attention to this same question. "In theory," he remarked, "our passenger engineers are expected to start their trains so easily that you only know the train has started by the fact that things seem to be moving by. That is a very high standard, but it is possible. There is also another ideal that can be attained: they should stop the train so easily that you only know it has stopped by seeing that you are not moving. If those two things can be brought about, nothing that could be done by you or me would increase so much the popularity of our line." It seems a little thing, but the reforming gesture would add immeasurably to the sum total of comfort of passengers on American railroads.

All For Liberty

(From the Buffalo Express)

It is reported that some persons favor Lincoln a sto name for the next Liberty loan. That's all right. Let them think up all the names they like. Every body will call it the Liberty loan just the same.

Actually a War-Measure

(From the New York Tribune)

It is earnestly to be hoped that in its consideration of war measures Congress will not overlook the measure introduced by Senator Smith and Representative Wood intended to make effective the treaty between this country and Canada for the protection of migratory birds. At first glance this may not seem to be a war bill, and it has been held up in the House, though passed by the Senate with only seven votes in opposition, on the ground that it does not come within the category of legislation directly concerned with the nation's preparation for war. Actually, this bill is directly and intimately connected with one of the most vital war problems this country has to solve—the food problem. As an aid to the conservation of food it deserves prompt consideration and enactment, and thorough enforcement thereafter.

The insect and seed eaters which would be protected are invaluable friends of the farmers of the nation. On the purely material side, just as a matter of dollars and cents and the available supply of food in a time when food is of prime importance to the nation and its allies, this bill should be passed. It would be folly to set it aside as having no bearing on the war.

Value of German Promises

(E. H. Lewinski-Corwin in New York Times)

There are many persons who believe that the terrific cost of the war and the realization on the part of Germany that she cannot win will make her Government anxious to negotiate a peace which would embody many of the principles laid down by President Wilson. They seem to think that the German Government would live up to the promises made in view of the disastrous effects which its policy of bad faith had produced. They evidently forget, or are entirely ignorant of the recent breach of promise on the part of Germany in relation to Poland.

On Nov. 5, 1916, by a joint manifesto the two emperors solemnly proclaimed the independence of Poland before the forum of the whole world. From the very start the German authorities were very slow in the realization of their promises. Every single attitude of the new state had to be wrested from them. During the nefarious negotiations of the German Government with that of the Czar for a separate peace the conditions in Poland took a decidedly bad turn. Finally, following the Russian revolution, when the tension on the eastern front became insignificant, the German Government showed its true designs regarding Poland and demonstrated to the world once more how it regards its promises.

General Joseph Pilsudski, the incarnation of Poland's attainments and ideals, has been imprisoned and the whole nation has been outraged. The recent experience of Poland with Germany's solemn promises should be considered as a warning to those who still believe that the present German Government and the Junker class can be relied upon to make binding treaties.

Riga

(From the U. S. Monitor)

The great Russian report, which lies on the battle at the head of the Gulf of Riga, has one significant feature. In the days before the war, at any rate, the population of Riga was forty-seven per cent German. Indeed, the Germans were by far the largest single section of the community, the Russians coming next with twenty-five per cent, and the Letts next with twenty-three per cent. For the rest, there was a small admixture of Estonians and Jews. It is the same, to a greater or less extent, throughout the whole of what are known as the Baltic provinces, and the explanation is not far to seek, for quite apart from the definite attempt which has been made, during the last few decades, by the Deutschium in Russia to colonize the Baltic provinces with Germans, the district has always possessed a great attraction for the German.

Riga itself owes its foundation to the merchants of Bremen, of some eight hundred years ago. It was in the year 1155 that a few Bremen traders, desiring to secure a storehouse on the eastern Baltic for the produce and merchandise of Russia which offered itself for purchase to the merchants of the west, decided upon the place where Riga now stands as affording the best facilities for their purpose. So a city was founded there, and from the first, it seems to have prospered greatly. As so often happened in those days, however, it early came under the control of the church. About the year 1190, the Augustinian monk, Meinhard, erected a monastery there. The next important event in the history of the town was when the Prince-Bishop Albrecht of Livonia obtained from Pope Innocent III permission for German merchants to land at the new settlement, and chose it for his seat, exercising his power over the neighboring district in connection with the Teutonic knights.

For a time all went well between the people of Riga and their bishop. But both prospered greatly, and the more one people prospered the more they looked askance at the bishop, and the greater were the efforts of the bishop to retain his hold and influence. The people, however, steadily gained ground. As early as the first half of the fifteenth century, Riga had greatly grown in strength and size that it obtained the right of electing its own magistracy. Later on, it joined the Hanseatic league, and, finally, after much murmuring, it rose in 1561 against the bishop and the Teutonic knights, and refused to recognize the rights of either. Riga succeeded in achieving its purpose, and, for more than one hundred and seventy years, the city maintained its freedom. In 1620, however, it fell once more under the control of the bishop, who managed to maintain his authority until it was finally abolished by the Reformation, in 1656.

About this time, the history of the town was particularly troubled. In 1547 Sigismund II, King of Poland, took the city; whilst, some ten years later, the Russians came against it, laid waste its suburbs, and burned many ships in the river. Then, in the year 1561, Riga and the whole of Livonia became a Polish possession. The troubles, however, were by no means over, for, in the 17th century, Sweden joined in the struggle, and in 1721 Gustavus Adolphus wrested the city from Poland, and held it successfully against both Russians and Poles. Riga, indeed, did not finally settle down as a Russian possession until 1710, and its last great adventure was in 1812, when the approach of Napoleon's forces being apprehended, the Russians resorted to the means which proved so successful at Moscow, and burnt the suburbs of the city.

NOTES OF THE SHIPBUILDING COMPANY

Plans have been made for a big restaurant where the men will obtain their secondary meal.

Five car loads of lumber have arrived and it is being unloaded for immediate use.

The laying off of between fifty and sixty laborers caused a panic in certain circles. The arrival of lumber immediately restored most of them to duty.

P. A. Jones of the shipping commission is passing the week-end in Boston.

President L. H. Shattuck made an inspection of the work this afternoon. Work on the mammoth saw mill is progressing rapidly.

The Rockingham Light and Power Co. will deliver juice to the plant at 1500 volts.

The "croakers" are endeavoring to make capital over the brief lay off of fifty carpenters.

Chief of Police Smith is kept busy chasing off hoboes.

POT NEXT MOVE UP TO ENDICOTT

The outlook for a speedy adjustment of the strike on the Boston and Maine or the return of the more than 3000 mechanics to their job on Monday morning was very remote last night. Practically nothing, if anything, was accomplished yesterday, and anything that will be done whereby the men will return to their work on Monday must be done before noon today. The general committee of the committee of the men will hold but one session today.

If anything develops an adjournment will be called until Monday.

The controversy was at a standstill yesterday with Henry B. Endicott, executive manager of the Massachusetts committee of public safety occupying the center of the stage. Both the officials of the Boston and Maine and the executive committee of the men entered the same feeling that the next move will come from Mr. Endicott.

At the same time at the office of the public safety committee it was explained that the invariable practice of Mr. Endicott which he has followed in a dozen or more strikes was to wait until he was invited by both parties to arbitrate before attempting to interfere or offer his services. If such in the case it may some time before arbitration begins, as the men's committee declares that the next move must come from some other quarter.

BISHOP MAKES PILGRIMAGE ON FOOT

(By Associated Press)

Peterborough, England, August 8.—The Bishop of Peterborough has taken a leaf out of the history of the Middle Ages and gone on a three weeks' pilgrimage among his clergy and people. He is walking from parish to parish robed in his purple cassock and carrying a crooked staff. The parishoners of the first week's itinerary of the bishop are clustered about the rolling, the richly wooded Leicestershire country in the neighborhood of Belvoir castle and in the vale of Belvoir.

A correspondent of the Daily Mail who met the bishop at the boundary line of the two parishes on a lonely country road where the silence was interrupted only by the rumbling of distant thunder and the solitude of the landscape was broken only by the silhouettes of a shepherd and his flock, described the procession as accompanying him as being truly a medieval spectacle.

The bishop, he says, headed the procession, a tall figure, virile and splendid, taller by fully five inches than the six-foot staff he carried which was made specially for the pilgrimage, from a 600-year-old oak at Peterborough Cathedral. On this staff, the bishop intends to carve the names of the various parishes he visits, as other pedestrians carve names on their Alpine sticks. With the bishop on this occasion there walked in the blazing sunshine the rural dean of Framland, the rector of the parish (Ridmille) and his churchwarden and parishoners.

At the parish boundary the procession halted and the bishop bade a farewell to every parishoner and thanked the rector for simple hospitality extended to him. Then the people all stood in a circle around him, the men with their heads bared, and the bishop prayed for the parish and its people and gave them his benediction.

About the same time, the rector of Barkston in his cassock and with his churchwarden and parishoners, appeared down a dusty road in the opposite direction. Thus, with bells of his churches welcoming him and the new procession accompanying him, the bishop continued his way into the parish of Barkston.

The bishop conducted the afternoon service of intercession. These services are special war services, with prayers and special reference to parishoners who are fighting or who have fallen in battle.

The bishop of Peterborough regards the services of his pilgrimage as quite friendly, helpful meetings of bishops, pastors and people in time of stress and sorrow. The correspondent says that he has beyond all doubt, immensely touched the imagination of the people by his walking pilgrimage.

WILL INVESTIGATE CONCORD GAS PRICE

Concord, N. H., Sept. 7.—Today the State Public Service Commission announced that an investigation of the Concord Light and Power Company was soon to be made, such an investigation having been requested by the Central Labor Union and by 450 gas users in the city who threaten to have their meters taken out and discontinue service.

The protest was inspired by objections of consumers to paying the 25 cents a month service charge on all gas meters being used in the city, which has been effect now for about a month.

The petition filed by the gas users protests against the charge and the labor body asks for a thorough investigation of the company and the reasonableness of $1.20 for 1000 cubic feet of gas for Concord as against cheaper rates in the vicinity towns.

It is claimed by the gas company that the increased cost of manufacture forced the service charge.

BURGLARS DROP SILVER AND FLEE

Rochester, N. H., Sept. 7.—The electric car waiting station on Central Square and the home of Mrs. Arthur Burnham on Lincoln street were broken into last night by burglars.

At the Burnham home the burglars were making a good haul when they dropped some goods on the floor awakening Mrs. Gladys Dudley Call, who slept in an adjoining room. She rushed upstairs to call help and the thieves dropped their spoils and escaped by way of the cellar window. Two men were seen running through the back yard of a neighbor about 4.30 this morning and later were seen going to Woods Somersworth. The men had piled up the silver to take with them when frightened away.

MALONE QUIT FOR SUFFRAGE

Resigns Post as Collector at New York Because President Didn't Advocate Suffrage Amendment.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Dudley Field Malone, customs collector at New York, tendered his resignation to President Wilson yesterday in protest against the failure of the President to advocate passage of the federal suffrage amendment and because he permitted the imprisonment of women who have been picketing the White House.

Mr. Malone, who as counsel defended the first of the militants arraigned in Police Court here, told the President, in his letter of resignation, that inasmuch as he had promised the women of the suffrage states that he would exert all his energy to have the national Democratic administration endorse suffrage by constitutional amendment, he felt obliged to resign and devote himself to redeeming that promise.

In quitting the office of collector of the port of New York, Mr. Malone leaves one of the best paid places in the government service. He is a son-in-law of former Senator O'Gorman.

He is survived by a wife, a son, Daniel G. of Barrington; two daughters, Lura of Springfield, Mass., and Lilla, who lives in Salisbury, Mass.; also by a brother, Col. Daniel Hall of this city.

WHAT FRENCH PRESIDENT SAID TO U. S. OFFICERS

Paris, Sept. 8.—After President Poincaré had reviewed the U. S. forces yesterday the American officers formed a circle about him. He addressed them briefly, speaking in French.

"What did he say?" was the question asked of one non-commissioned officer, who stood near the party during the speech, when he rejoined his command.

"I don't know, exactly," was the reply. "But I think he said to give 'em hell."

"That's the stuff!" yelled a number of privates in chorus and the word ran all up and down the long khaki lines amid another outburst of cheering.

WHISKERLESS MAN REFUSED

Boston, Sept. 8.—Officials of the marine recruiting station, 22 Tremont Row, are willing to give any hair grower in existence a real test and to give full credit to the manufacturer in case of a successful issue. Incidentally success on the part of the manufacturer will mean success to Uncle Sam in adding one thoroughly good marine to the service in the person of Justin H. Shapley of Beebe Plain, Va., the first whiskerless man ever to make his appearance at the station.

Shapley made application for enlistment and passed muster with several points to his advantage. Then the physician in charge noticed that the man's face was as clear of whiskers as a baby's or a woman's might be. "What about it?" he asked thinking perhaps Shapley had just been shaved as a preliminary to his examination.

"Never was shaved in my life," returned Shapley.

"That's enough," returned the examining physician. "We only take men in the marines who are capable of growing beards. Nothing doing on the whiskerless chap."

Of the 14 men who applied for enlistment three were accepted.

At the army recruiting station, ten were sent to forts and one to the One Hundred and Second Field Artillery regiment at Boxford. Of 13 men applying for enlistment 11 passed.

DOVER POINT STATION BROKEN INTO

Dover, Sept. 7.—The Boston and Maine railroad station at Dover Point, was broken into last night. This morning Agent Herbert Dand found that an entrance had been made by the use of a jimmy to pry up a window.

After the intruders had entered the station they smashed the windows in the ticket office but nothing was disturbed in the office. It was thought that they must have been frightened away.

TO CAN SWEET CORN

(In the North and West.)
Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—Can as soon after the corn is harvested as possible. Remove husks and silk. Blanch by placing in boiling water for five minutes. Remove and dip quickly into hot oil or cans to within 1-4 inch of the top. Pour in enough boiling water to fill the container. Add one level teaspoonful of salt to each quart. Put rubber rings and caps of jars into position but do not tighten the wire clamps. Seal the cans completely.

Place containers on a false bottom of wooden slats or wire mesh in a vessel of water deep enough to completely cover the containers. Keep the water boiling for three hours.

Remove the jars; tighten covers; invert jars to test seal, and cool (not in draft, as jars might crack).

The cans may be placed in cold water for rapid cooling.

After the containers are cool store in a dark, cool place.

Rapid preparation for canning is especially desirable for corn if a good quality of product is to be obtained. The best results can be secured when one person cuts the corn from the cob and another fills the containers. If it is necessary for one person to work alone she should cut off sufficient corn to fill one jar, pour on boiling water, add salt, place the rubbers and caps in position and put the jar on container into hot water at once. The extra cooking which will be given to the cans first filled will not be injurious and a better product will be secured than if the cut corn were allowed to stand until all jars were filled.

THOUSAND QUIT AT NEWMARKET

Workers Leave Mills, Demanding Readjustment
in Wages.

Newmarket, Sept. 8.—One thousand employees of the Newmarket Manufacturing company left their work and walked out at 11.50 o'clock yesterday morning, effecting an entire shut down of the concern, excepting the overseers and the office force.

The cause was a long standing disagreement about the wage scale. A branch of the Textile Workers' Union of America was formed here last spring and this organization asked for an increase in wages, a schedule being arranged and presented to the company. A raise varying all the way from 1 to 20 per cent in the different departments was granted. This was not satisfactory to the employees, as the raise was not uniform and their dissatisfaction terminated in the walk-out yesterday noon.

Agent Walter M. Gallant said this afternoon that as yet he did not care to make any statement regarding the trouble, but he was in hopes that some arrangement might be effected soon.

There was no disturbance, the employees simply walking out.

This is the second trouble at the Newmarket Manufacturing Company within a period of five months, a strike occurring on March 22, and lasting till March 28, when a settlement was effected.

Inexpensive Floors that Look as Well as Hardwood

When a floor is bare and polished, it is often referred to as a "hardwood" floor, when such is not the case. The reference has come to apply more to the style than to the wood itself. Here are today other woods on the market which cost far less than hardwood, are just as beautiful, and wear practically as well. We can show you these stained in beautiful colors.

Littlefield Lumber Co.

Note—Among the woods mentioned above, also the most conspicuous feature of the beauty of our products is the price. North Carolina Pine and other woods are sold at 50c per board foot.

BODY OF CHILD COMES ASHORE

Kennebunk, Me., Sept. 7.—The naked body of a girl about one week old was washed ashore at Gooch's beach today. Dr. Charles F. Traynor, medical examiner of Biddeford, who made an autopsy this afternoon refused to give out findings, until authorized by the county attorney. The body had been in the water about a week. The supposition is that it was thrown from a passing steamer, but whether dead or alive cannot be stated until the medical examiner reports.

TELLS FOLKS HIS WIFE DIED, THEN FINDS HER EATING

Boston, Sept. 7.—John Jones—which isn't his name at all—was about to board a car yesterday morning at Randolph to visit his sick wife in the hospital when he got a message from a spirit.

"You're crazy, John," said the spirit, "to slip the trolley company a jitney to ride to the hospital because your wife ain't there. She died last night and her spirit's up above boardin' at my house."

"Well, whaddye know about that," muttered John to himself. "I'll bet those doctors and nurses had a party and killed Mary. I'll have 'em pinched."

Whereupon John went looking for a cop. But being in Randolph he grew weary before he found one so went to a telephone instead. Going on a rampage with his loose change he telephoned all his folks and his wife's folks and told them Mary was dead. Then he went on to the hospital to claim the body. He arrived just as a few hundred relatives, all in tears, his wife he found getting through the third course of dinner and feeling immense.

You can finish it yourself.

FISHING CREW NET $239 PER MAN ON SHORT TRIP

"Old H. C. L. is one good friend," Gouthy Pete to Skipper Bill, "This fish is plenty as ever it was. The price is higher still."

Maybe it's the war and maybe it isn't. Anyway, Boston and Provincetown fishermen are becoming capitalists. If you don't believe it, read this: The mackerel schooner Mary F. Curtis since June 1 has earned $16,000 and each man in her crew has received $1040 for 12 weeks' work. One recent catch netted all hands aboard $239 per man and they were only gone from port a few days. This is the record for all seiners thus far reported.

Here's another: In the groundfishing fleet, the Josephine De Costa has them all beaten, for she has "stocked" $71,000 since the first of the year. Each fisherman pocketed a

UNSHAKEN TESTIMONY

Time is the test of truth. And Dean's Kidney Pills have stood the test in Portsmouth. No Portsmouth resident who suffers backache, or annoying urinary ills can remain unconvinced by this twice-told testimony.

Clinton R. Hurd, 57 Hill St., Portsmouth, says: "I suffered from sharp pains in my back so severe at times that I was unable to get up from a chair. I was tired all the time and there was a dull ache and soreness across my loins. One box of Dean's Kidney Pills, procured at Philbrick's Pharmacy, relieved me wonderfully and thus encouraged, I continued using them until cured of the attack."

The above statement was given on June 26, 1911, and on October 21, 1915, Mr. Hurd said: "Dean's Kidney Pills have never failed to correct kidney disorders in my case and I always keep them on hand as a preventive. I gladly confirm my past endorsement."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Dean's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Hurd has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

MEN GET IT AGAIN IN THE NECK

The collar manufacturers up in Troy have evidently grown weary changing the styles in men's collars, so now they've changed the price. They went up yesterday, did those nice white collars that every wife and mother, girl and daughter, always fusses about, if they don't suit them. They went from 15 cents to 20 cents per copy, which makes a considerable increase in the last few months.

It used to be that a poor man with pride in his neck could get two linen collars for two bits. If he was a bit strapper he might invade certain territories and get one for a dime; or if he happened to be an extremist he might buy a celluloid affair, some sand soap and get by a year, providing he didn't flirt with fire or pal around with Spontaneous Combustion. But the average man could go anywhere and his silver quarter would get a pair of those real snappy collars that you see pictured on the blond youths in the L. trains, and which look snappy on nobody but the said pictorial youths.

But those days have slid past, Heroman. We are living in strenuous times. Let Friend Wife now reverse your collar because you know you are going to think twice before laying down four hard dimes for two linen neck coverings that only used to cost you 25 cents.

FOR BENEFIT OF NAVY AID

A very pretty dancing party was held at Freeman's Hall on Friday evening for the benefit of the navy aid society.

The hall was very attractively decorated with the National colors and the Naval Band and orchestra furnished the music for dancing which was enjoyed from 9 to 11. The affair was under the management of the ladies and officers of the yard, and the attendance included many from this city, from Fort Constitution and from the surrounding resorts and a good sum was realized for the Navy Aid.

SECOND DRAFT PLANNED FOR THIS WINTER

Washington, Sept. 7.—Two million men in active service and training camps by June 30 is the plan of the war department. Another draft of 500,000 men this winter is planned.

This became known today when statements of Secretary Baker and expert advisers before the recent hearings of the House appropriations committee were printed as a public document.

By Oct. 10 the department expects to have 1,500,000 under arms. If sufficient equipment and accommodations have been obtained for these men, another draft will be recommended to the President. All war department estimates were asked by Secretary Baker and granted by the committee on the assumption that the President will issue the call.

There are about a million men under arms today—soldiers, militia and marines. When the first draft mobilization is completed there will be more than 1,500,000 men. Another draft this winter will complete the 2,000,000 men expected.

The 40 per cent of the drafted men who move to their cantonments beginning Sept. 19 will go in daily contingents of 6000 men.

Incompleteness of some of the camps and want of railway facilities will not permit the full 274,800 men to entrain on the 19th. Some change in the second 40 per cent originally ordered to mobilize on Oct. 3 also will be necessary.

CAN'T AGREE WITH PRES. WILSON

(By Associated Press)
New York, Sept. 7.—Dudley Malone this evening resigned his position as Collector of Port of New York city. Mr. Malone said that the action of the President in preventing women from peaceful picketing about the White House grounds and ordering them to jail, had made it necessary that he leave the government. He said he had offered the ladies of the western states his support and he had resigned to give his assistance.

ACTOR ARRESTED FOR GERMAN WIRELESS DOINGS

San Francisco, Sept. 7.—Rudolfo Lazada, an actor, is under arrest here today, charged with conspiracy to furnish agents of Germany in Mexico with a wireless telegraphy plant.
Lazada was charged jointly with Carlos De La Sierra under arrest in San Diego. Federal officers said the two men purchased a radiograph equipment here last Tuesday. An alleged attempt to smuggle this across the border at San Diego resulted in the arrest of De La Sierra.

TO EXILE ALL GRAND DUKES

Petrograd, Sept. 7.—The newspapers today report that the government has decided to release and exile abroad, as a result of the recent exposure of a counter revolutionary plot, Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch, Grand Duke Paul, Mme. Virubova, commandant of former Empress Alexandra, who lately was released from the Petropavlovsk fortress; former Minister of the Interior Khrzhevsky, and the former palace commandant, Gen. Voyekoff. Former Premier Sturmer's secretary, the notorious Minassevitch Manuilov, was sent abroad yesterday.

It develops that the arrest of Mme. Margarete Ilitrova, said to have been one of the chief conspirators in the plot, was effected when she was caught trying to enter the prison of former Emperor Nicholas at Tobolsk with a letter.

Her correspondence was seized and she was put on board a steamer under a heavy guard and dispatched to Petrograd. The government has sent three commissioners to Tobolsk to watch the former Emperor.

LIBERTY STRONGEST, SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

Birkenhead, Eng., Sept. 7.—Germany has not yet felt the final strain of the war, said Premier Lloyd George, speaking at the Royal National Bisteddorf here today. When she did, he continued, she would feel the binding value of real freedom.

If Russia had enjoyed more freedom in peace time, declared the Premier, she would have been more united in war, for unity of action was not a suppression of freedom, but its highest expression.

Speaking of the affection of the Dominions for the mother country, the Premier said this would continue to grow and become deeper, more insistent, more compelling as the years rolled by.

"This was the great day of the empire the Premier declared, 'What would have happened to the 'Liberty of the Nations,' he went on, 'if it had not been for the British Empire.' When the war is over humanity will know how much human liberty owes to the fact that the British Empire is no sham, but a reality."

"Great empires are necessary for protection and security and for strength, but small Nations are necessary for concentration and intensive effort. The British Empire is made up of four Nations, but they today are one in purpose, one in action, one in sacrifice and, please God, soon will be one in triumph."

AGREEING ON WAR TAX

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Sept. 7.—The income tax bill section of the big war bill was practically disposed of in the Senate this evening when a conference of the committee made some agreement. $2,500,000,000 has been provided from revenue and this was adopted today. The new levy calls for $842,000,000 increase.

MORE THAN THE QUOTA NEEDED IN THE DISTRICT

The war board reported today that it had certified more than the quota of 75 in the draft army required in this district. Up to noon today 17 of the fourth call made had been accepted who had not requested exemption.
The district board has overruled the decision of the local board and allowed exemption in the case of Guy Carl Wiggin of Plaislow and Jacob Mandelbaum of this city. The district board sustained the ruling of the local board in the case of Moses Sarkis Malassian of 49 Daniel street, who requested exemption on the ground that he was over age on the day of the registration on June 5. THREE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Cars Meet on the Lafayette Road This Forenoon.

Dr. Frank A. Fenerhan, William Ward and Compton Jones were injured in an automobile accident this forenoon on the Lafayette road near the residence of Joseph Hobbs in North Hampton.

According to the story of the accident, a Maine car from York, following another car ahead attempted to get by the car and rushed headon with much speed into the car of Ward. The car tipped over with the occupants underneath.

Assistance was summoned by telephone as quickly as possible and the men brought to this city. Fenerhan, who was picked up unconscious, is suffering from concussion. Ward was much cut and bruised and Jones injured about the legs. Both cars were badly damaged. The driver of the Maine car is said to have made conflicting statements in regard to the collision. The Portsmouth party claim they were moving at a slow rate of speed at the time.

FRANK W. KNIGHT SHOE TALKS

10 Market St. "SHOES OF QUALITY" Portsmouth

Lessons must be learned even about shoes. This is a subject that we have studied for years, until now we feel qualified to act as teachers of the right sort of shoes for school children to wear. It is not all a matter of durability, this virtue must be accompanied with perfection of fit, and good looks.

This week we are making special efforts in our Children's Shoe Department, giving exceptional service to the requirements of Fall School days.
